

ABSTRACT

A flat telephone has a substantially flat panel with a front surface, a rear surface and thin side edges. A plurality of touch sensors are adhered on the front surface of the flat panel. An electronics unit is recessed in the rear surface of the flat panel. A speaker and a microphone are electrically connected to the electronics unit and disposed proximate the front surface of the flat panel. A sleeve having a decorative design covers the flat panel.